PRQ - PART II

36. CABATON 39
37. Subject was told by CAECTOMY 18 that he had submitted Subject's papers to the Amerikanische Arbeitsamt of the U.S. Army in Frankfurt for possible part-time employment. [] as Mr. [] contacted Subject on 15 December 1959 at his home, saying that Subject's papers had come to his attention. [] said he was engaged in economic research, including the Satellite area and needed a place to receive mail from contacts who could not write directly.
38. Yes. To any other German-speaking case officer.
39. Largely financial, though there is probably a genuine desire to do some work against the Communist threat from the East.
40. Complete field and Headquarters name check.
41. Nominal control through payment of money and personal capability of whatever case officer handles him.
42. Subject has been told that the case officer represents an economic research unit of the U.S. Forces. However, Subject is sufficiently savvy to believe that he is working for AIS. As our relationship with Subject progresses, it is assumed that this belief will be confirmed.
43. So far as we can determine, none, aside from a short stint in the German army attached as a motor officer to an Information Office (Nachrichtendienst) - see section 25 of PRQ I.
44. Subject is serving as a live letter drop.
45. See above.
46. No special training as yet aside from usual precautions regarding security and instruction in reception and forwarding of operational mail.
47. NA
48. Yes. He will be paid DM 75.00 per month.
49. None, aside from the above.
50. No.
51. Lower middle class.
52. Moderate drinker, does not smoke, sex habits unknown.
53. We believe this man is a reliable type, with an inherent sense of security. There is very little likelihood that when asked to keep his mouth shut he would neglect to observe the necessary precautions.
54. Do not believe Subject would be likely to ally himself with any non-German power aside from the United States.
